WASHINGTON, D.C. (June 29, 2017): The Multicultural Media, Telecom and Internet Council (MMTC) warmly congratulates Federal Communications Commission (FCC) General Counsel Brendan Carr on his reported selection as a nominee to serve as an FCC commissioner.

MMTC President and CEO Kim Keenan issued the following statement:

In his five years at the FCC, and in his career at Wiley Rein before joining the Commission, Brendan Carr was well-known for his very high-level understanding and engagement in the issues of civil rights and digital inclusion. He has demonstrated that he will be an innovative, knowledgeable, and fair Commissioner whose door is open to hear all sides of an issue. MMTC looks forward to working with Mr. Carr as we continue our 31-year mission of promoting policies that advance diversity in media, telecom, and tech ownership; close the digital divide; and ensure equal access to opportunity for all Americans.
