MMTC
Multicultural Media, Telecom and Internet Council

Tech Prep Summit
Saturday, October 22, 2016 | 9:00 AM – 2:30 PM
University of the District of Columbia Van Ness Campus Theatre of the Arts
4200 Connecticut Avenue & Windom Place NW Washington, DC
#MMTCtechsummit | mmtconline.org/mmtctechsummit

Introducing multicultural students to the world of opportunity in tech education and careers, teaching them basic skills and opportunities in technology from people who look like them.

Tech Prep Day seeks to bridge the gap and provide inspiration to the many multicultural students who demonstrate interest and achievement in STEM, but struggle to see themselves studying related fields – they cannot link the fields to their lives, goals, and perceptions of who succeeds in tech.

ENCOURAGING INTEREST THROUGH INTERACTIVE ENGAGEMENT:
This interactive day will introduce approximately 250 high school and college students age 18-and-up to the fast-paced world of tech through keynote talks and hands-on demonstrations with recognized innovators and representatives from major tech companies and startups.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS:

- Introduction and overview of the types of jobs available in tech
- Presentations from successful, young people of color in the tech industry
- Resume-building and interview skills workshop
- Music, interactive raffles, contests, and giveaways

Let's work together to ensure that multicultural college students are included at all levels, from consumer to creator, in our digital future. Let's open the door to a real world of innovation and achievement!

Learn more and register: http://www.mmtconline.org/mmtctechsummit | #mmtctechsummit
Interested in partnerships, sponsorships, or being a speaker? Contact conferences@mmtconline.org